

Members' Day! - Friday 11 March 2021

Your Guide to Hosting Your Own National Social Housing Safety and Compliance Week 'Challenge for Safety' Session

What is a 'Challenge for Safety' Session?

National Social Housing Week is YOUR week and your platform to talk about those safety and compliance challenges that are most relevant to you, your organisation and your residents.

Friday 11 March is Members' Day – where you can host your own session (similar to a MacMillan Coffee Morning) within your organisation.

What topics will you cover?

Below are some example topics. But do select a topic that will most benefit your organisation and your residents:

- How can we work more effectively with residents on safety issues?
- How do we embed the 'Challenge for Safety' ethos within our culture, so everyone feels comfortable in speaking up and concerns are taken seriously?
- Seen or heard something that makes you feel uncomfortable – then come and talk to us!
- How can we work better as an organisation to raise the profile of safety and compliance?
- How prepared are we for the upcoming Building Safety Bill? What still needs to be done?

Who will you invite?

This is your session and the guest list is up to you. But key to success is inviting people who can help, or indeed need help, to drive your initiative or develop your safety culture. It's a great opportunity to share views, be open about the challenges you are facing and work together to find solutions

- Team members
- Colleagues from other teams and departments to break down any silos
- Board members
- Residents

What format will the session take?

Again, this is entirely up to you and what you think will best meet the needs of your organisation, team members and residents. This could be a:

- Presentation followed by a Q&A session
- Panel discussion

- Case study exploration
- Drop in session

We have prepared a PowerPoint template for you to use.

Your next steps:

- Book a meeting room for Friday 11 March 2022 or set up a team meeting if working virtually. Or both, if it means you reach more people!
- Decide on the topics you want to include and the format of your session
- It would be great to get your senior management team or board members involved. Or at least raise awareness with them that this event is taking place
- Send out invitations and publicise your event
- Tag us in your social media posts @ascp_uk and use #challengeforsafety #strongertogether
- Don't forget the cake!

We'd love to hear about your plans and how it went. Drop us a note to:
